A Personal Note from Rabbi Rudin

Dear CAS Community,

It has been a challenging week for me personally. My aunt, Gail DuBrow, was hospitalized early this week following a brief and valiant battle with cancer. She passed away in the early morning hours of Wednesday, surrounded by love.

Today, I have the honor of officiating at her funeral, and I will spend the next few days with my family as we mourn, remember, and comfort one another.

Even as I step away to be with my family, I am doing my best to keep our High Holiday planning moving forward, and I am deeply grateful to everyone who is helping to carry that work during these few days.

I look forward to fully reengaging with everyone on Tuesday.

Thank you for your patience, kindness, and understanding. It means more than you know.

Shabbat Shalom,
Rabbi Rudin
